EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

PEACE IS NOT JUST ABSENCE OF WAR: Peace is a deep, positive inner experience. If we look at life closely, three things are essential for peace: passion, dispassion and compassion. Passion is essential to achieve anything worthwhile. Without it, one could feel lost, unenthusiastic or even depressed. On the other hand, unbridled passion can lead to anxiety, fear of uncertainty and even insomnia.

While passion propels one into action, dispassion allows one to relax. A certain amount of dispassion is essential to feel sane, safe and have a sound sleep. It broadens one's vision and allows one to look at life from a bigger context, acknowledging the fact that people and situations are constantly changing. When one embraces this sense of impermanence, the world appears like a transit lounge. This awareness makes individuals pause and reconsider the priorities of their life. The third aspect is compassion which defines our humanity. In absence of which, life appears dry and meaningless.

When these three go out of balance, it induces stress and societal discord. This is the primary cause of today's mental health crisis. Unfortunately, neither at home nor in school have we ever learned how to deal with anger, jealousy, fear or sadness. Therapy and medication can help to some extent, but they are not enough. This calls for fundamental rethinking. What we need is a way to get to the root of stress and eliminate it.

Our breath holds many secrets. Have you noticed how you breathe when you are angry, or excited, stressed or sad or very relaxed? As you are reading, just observe how your breath is. There is certain rhythm to our breath that is linked to our emotions. And if one cannot handle mind directly, one can do that through breath. Yog, pranayam and Sudarshan Kriya make it so easy to use the breath to feel relaxed and happy; and for the mind to become calm.

Meditation is no longer a luxury today but a necessity, if we want to create a peaceful world. These two together bring that rare combination of outer dynamism and inner calm. If there is even one disturbed person in a family, the whole family suffers. World peace begins with individuals being at peace with themselves first.

Wars don't begin on the battlefield; they begin in the mind. A perceived threat, a breakdown in communication, a lack of trust — these are seeds of war. That is why dialogue is so important because when words fail, weapons take over. But eventually, we always come back to dialogue. Why not begin with it? — Gurudev Sri Sri Ravi Shankar in The Times of India

'Strongman' pulls ship with his teeth

Hurghada: An Egyptian wrestler is hoping he has set a world record after pulling a 700-ton (635,000 kg) ship with his teeth.

Ashraf Mahrous, 44, pulled it across the water in Egypt's Red Sea resort of Hurghada on Saturday.

Mahrous, nicknamed 'Kabonga' and known to Egyptians as 'strongman', later pulled two ships weighing about 1,150 tons (1,043,000 kg) together.

"Today, I have come to break the world record. I pulled them both, thanks to God, to prove to my friends and the whole world that God blessed me by being the strongest man in the world," he said and added that he would send videos and photos of his attempt to Guinness World Records to see if he has set a new mark.

In March, Mahrous pulled a train weighing 279 tonnes (253,105kg) with a rope in his teeth for nearly 10 metres (33ft).

Family finds gem at Crater of Diamonds

Arkansas: A family celebrating a birthday at Arkansas' Crater of Diamonds State Park discovered a brown diamond weighing in at 2.79 carats.

Raynae Madison said she and her family travelled to the park from Cookson, Okla., for her nephew's birthday and brought along a beach digging kit and sand sifting tools they bought from a dollar store.

The family went sifting near Prospector Trailhead, on the north side of the park, and after going through a few buckets worth of sand, spotted a shiny, oblong object. They took the stone to the park's Diamond Discovery Centre, where experts confirmed it was a 2.79-carat brown diamond.

The park said that the diamond was the third-largest gem found at the park so far this year.

Rooftop viewing from old buildings BANNED on Jumboo Savari day

- Signboards, public address system to curb risky crowd behaviour
- Beds, ICUs, staff reserved at hospitals to meet any emergencies

Mysuru, Sept. 30 (RK&BCT)- The Mysuru District Administration and City Police have decided to strictly enforce a ban on the public from watching the Jumboo Savari from old and dilapidated structures along the Dasara procession route on Oct. 2.

For years, it has been a popular yet dangerous practice for youths and spectators to climb precarious buildings and even trees to get a better view of the five-kilometre-long grand parade of cultural troupes, carnival floats and the majestic Golden Howdah elephant. The spectacular procession draws lakhs of devotees and tourists, including international visitors.

Stampede tragedies trigger action: The decision is prompted by two deadly stampedes — June 4, 2025, incident at Bengaluru's M. Chinnaswamy Stadium, which claimed 11 lives, and recent tragedy at a political rally in Karur, Tamil Nadu, where 41 people were killed.

Both disasters were caused by uncontrolled crowds, prompting Mysuru authorities to act before a similar catastrophe occurs. For years, officials failed to stop youngsters from scaling century-old buildings around K.R. Circle, Devaraja Market and other key junctions on Sayyaji Rao Road, as well as trees and advertisement hoardings.

Mysuru, Sept. 30 (PM&BS)- After eight-days of cultural feast, Dasara Cultural Programmes organised in the Mysore Palace premises from Sept. 22, came to an end last evening.

On the concluding day too, the music connoisseurs were entertained with a melange of programmes, from vocal to dance, light music to folk music, that marked the music ensemble for the year by Dasara Cultural Programmes Sub-Committee.

Renowned singers Indu Nagaraj and Lakshmi Nagaraj sister-duo belted out popular songs to the huge applause of the gathering. Making the audience know about their roots in the city, the duo rendered a song 'Nimmurina Sahodariyaru Navibbaru...', followed by a stream of devotional songs namely 'Vathapi Ganapathim Baje...', 'Sri Chamundeshwari Amma...' from Kannada film 'Sri Krishnadevaraya', 'Brindavanadolu Haduanaare...' from the film 'Malathi Madhava' etc.

The youths among the audience went gaga, following the rendition of 'Pyarge Agbitaithe...' a chart-buster song from the film 'Govindaya Namaha'.

Dr. Mysore Gururaj and troupe presented folk songs, Stoka Krishnaswamy of ISKCON Mysuru presented 'Harinama Sankeerthana', Rekha Soudhi and troupe of Bidari Samskrutika Vedike (Bidar) presented devotional songs.

A dance drama by Dehali Karnataka Sangha kindled the spirit of Kannada, Ganasiri troupe spread a wave of music, followed by a jugalbandi of dance ballet, that proved a perfect adieu to Dasara Cultural Programmes at Palace premises.

'Cauvery Aarti confluence of north and south traditions'

Suttur Seer Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Swamiji lauds novel initiative

Mandya, Sept. 30 (BCT)- The Cauvery Aarti at KRS Dam, being held for the first time in such a deeply meaningful and special manner, represents a confluence of North and South Indian traditions, said Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Swamiji, head of the Suttur Veerasimhasana Mahasansthana Mutt.

Speaking on the fourth day of the Cauvery Aarti last evening, the Seer described the ritual as inclusive, inspiring sacredness in all and bringing joy to people's hearts.

He noted that the Aarti symbolises the transformation of a drought-prone region of Mandya into fertile land, and called on everyone to remember the contributions of Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar. The Seer further emphasised that worshipping nature has been central to Indian culture since the days of Harappa and Mohenjo-Daro. This tradition, he said, continues into the modern era.

Expressing hope that the Cauvery flows perennially like the Ganga in the north, he urged people to take a vow not to pollute the river and to uphold its sanctity. "Let the spirit of purity reside in all," he said.

On the fourth day, over 30 Swamijis accompanied the Suttur Seer in a ceremonial procession to KRS, arriving by bus and receiving a grand welcome, accompanied by Gorava Kunita, Kamsale, Kombu Kahale and other folk art performances.

The event was attended by Mandya MLA Ravikumar, Siddalinga Swamiji, MLC Dinesh Gooligowda, MLA Ramesh Babu Bandisiddegowda, his mother Vijayalakshmi Bandisiddegowda, DC Dr. Kumara, SP Mallikarjun Baladandi, ZP CEO K.R. Nandini and officials from Cauvery Neeravari Nigama Limited (CNNL).

Lingambudhi Flower Show: The road not to be taken!

Sir,

Yesterday, I visited the Lingambudhi Flower Show. The road starting from Ramakrishnanagar Church leading to the Flower Show Park is in a terrible state. It was dug up nearly eight months ago and has not been asphalted since. Now, it's just a muddy stretch full of potholes, making the drive extremely unpleasant and dangerous.

Suyog Hospital is right on this road — and one can only imagine how difficult it must be for patients to reach it in emergencies.

Residents living around Saibaba Temple, Nimishamba Layout, and several nearby areas must have been enduring this dreadful drive every single day for the past several months.

Then comes the shocking part: The road worsens right at the entrance of the Flower Show. A badly damaged mud road greets visitors the moment they turn towards the venue.

Parking is another nightmare. Vehicles are parked so haphazardly that the first car owner has to wait for others to clear out because there's no space to reverse.

Adding to the confusion, several people were busy issuing parking tickets — with no uniform, no logo, no identification. Whether it was even an official parking arrangement is anyone's guess.

The entry ticket is priced at Rs. 60 per adult. While the ticket counter staff were quick, there were too few counters to handle the crowd, leading to unnecessary delays.

As we were halfway through enjoying the flower show, it began to rain. To our dismay, there were no shelters anywhere. The grassy areas turned into slush, making it extremely difficult and slippery to walk, especially for families with young children and elderly visitors. Many struggled to wade through the muck.

The road back to the parking area was even worse — dangerously slippery, sticky, and filled with slush.

The flower show itself was beautiful, but everything else surrounding it was a complete disappointment. The organisers could have at least laid out carpets or temporary pathways to make it easier for people to walk in and out, especially considering the weather.

I saw many elderly people with walking sticks and even some in wheelchairs. Why doesn't the Government consider their needs?

Instead of focusing solely on massive advertisements boasting about the "Dasara Utsava," attention should be given to basic visitor facilities. A beautiful event was marred by sheer mismanagement.

And lastly, how is it that a road dug up months ago is still left untarred? Why aren't hospitals, schools, churches and other institutions along this stretch raising their voice?

Unless people come together and demand accountability, nothing will ever change.

Rooftop viewing from old buildings banned on Jumboo Savari day

Signboards asking public to stay away from dilapidated buildings have been put up all along the Jumboo Savari route. Picture right shows the bomb disposal squad checking for suspicious materials along the procession route this morning.

"During past celebrations, people risked their lives climbing these unsafe structures just to get a glimpse of the procession or to attract attention. This year, that will not be allowed," stressed Deputy Commissioner G. Lakshmikanth Reddy, who is also Dasara Special Officer.

Buildings to be sealed, access blocked

The Deputy Commissioner confirmed that all weak and dilapidated buildings along the Raja Marga — including Lansdowne Building, Devaraja Market, Visvesvaraya Building at K.R. Circle, Government Ayurveda College building at Panchamukhi Circle, Horse Stand and several others along Sayyaji Rao Road — will be sealed off well in advance.

"Hundreds of signboards have been installed along the route to alert the public, and this time the rule will be enforced without exception," Reddy told Star of Mysore. Police will monitor the buildings continuously on Oct. 2, preventing anyone from sneaking in to occupy rooftops.

The signboards, sponsored by private donors, have been mounted on trees, poles and other prominent spots along the entire stretch from Mysore Palace to Torchlight Parade Grounds.

Additionally, public address systems with loudspeakers are being installed to communicate real-time instructions to the lakhs of spectators lining the streets.

Dedicated Police team, strict action

A special Police unit has been deployed to guard vulnerable spots, prevent people from climbing buildings, trees or hoardings, and take swift action against violators, said City Police Commissioner Seema Latkar.

Where possible, doors and access points to dilapidated structures will be locked and secured. Police have also met with owners of old, fragile and under-construction buildings along the route, instructing them to deny access to anyone attempting to use their property for viewing the procession.

Emergency medical preparedness

To deal with any medical emergencies on Vijayadashami day, beds, wards, ICUs, equipment, doctors and staff have been reserved at key hospitals — K.R. Hospital, District Hospital, Princess Krishnajammanni Super-Speciality Hospital and JSS Hospital.

The Dean and Director of Mysore Medical College and Research Institute (MMC&RI) have been instructed to ensure full emergency readiness.

Race on for prime viewing spots along procession route

Spectators secure spots with mats, threads and sacks, anchored with stones

Mysuru, Sept. 30 (BLU& BCT)- As Mysuru gears up for the grand finale of the Dasara festivities, excitement is reaching fever pitch across the city.

The Jumboo Savari procession, scheduled for Oct. 2, is the crown jewel of the celebrations and has already begun drawing crowds eager to witness the spectacle. Determined to secure prime viewing spots, people have started staking their claim on roadside spaces days in advance — spreading out mats and sacks, anchoring them with stones to keep them in place.

This early rush reflects the deep cultural significance and emotional attachment Mysureans share with this centuries-old tradition. Given the sheer scale of the event and the presence of caparisoned elephants, the District Administration and Police have rolled out stringent safety measures. Officials have repeatedly cautioned that unauthorised entry onto the procession route could spook the elephants, risking chaos, accidents, and even a stampede.

To prevent such incidents, barricades have been set up along the entire route, creating a clear boundary between spectators and the procession. Thousands of Police personnel have been deployed to maintain constant vigilance and ensure no one steps onto the route during the grand parade.

Spectators have reserved space with sacks, stones and threads to view the Vijayadashami procession on Sayyaji Rao Road near Bamboo Bazaar.

Adding another layer of security, four to five bomb detection and disposal squads are already combing through the route, scanning baggage, baskets and other belongings for suspicious objects, including metallic or electronic triggering devices. Drinking water points are also being installed along the route for public convenience. Tickets and passes have been distributed for specially designated viewing enclosures. Pendals have been constructed along the footpaths from Chamaraja Wadiyar Circle to K.R. Circle, providing organised seating for spectators.

In addition, several organisations, with Police permission, have erected their own viewing pendals near Chikka Gadiyara and Bamboo Bazaar.

No pass, No entry

Mysuru, Sept. 30 (MK& BCT)- In a bid to ensure the smooth and secure conduct of this year's Mysuru Dasara Jumboo Savari procession and the Torchlight Parade, the City Police have rolled out a series of stringent regulations for public safety.

Seema Latkar

Police Commissioner Seema Latkar announced that entry to both events will be strictly limited to individuals holding valid passes. "No pass, no entry" will be the guiding rule, and those without authorised passes will be denied access.

Vehicles must be parked only at designated locations. With several dilapidated buildings lining the Jumboo Savari route, the Police have banned rooftop viewing and prohibited the use of any unsafe structures to watch the procession.

All attendees have been instructed to follow security personnel directives without exception. Officials stressed that these precautions are being enforced in light of recent incidents, including stampedes near M. Chinnaswamy Stadium, Bengaluru and at actor Vijay's rally at Karur, Tamil Nadu, where many lives were lost.

Ayudha Puja festival rush

Mysuru, Sept. 30 (MK&BS)- Along with Jumboo Savari, Mysuru, popularly known as the Cultural Capital of the State, is bracing up for Ayudha Puja festival. Jumboo Savari is on Oct. 2 and Ayudha Puja, during which, weapons and vehicles along with prominent belongings from daily use are worshipped, is slated for tomorrow (Oct. 1).

What makes Ayudha Puja significant is its royal patronage, with the descendants of Wadiyars, the erstwhile rulers of princely State of Mysore, still practicing the custom and tradition, associated with the festival.

The markets in Central Business District, mainly Devaraja Market on Sayyaji Rao road, Vani Vilas Market at Agrahara, Nanjumalige and vegetable market on M.G. Road and other parts of the city, are brimming with shoppers to buy flowers, fruits, banana leaves and plants, ash gourd and other essentials for the festival.

The make-shift markets on the footpaths of Sayyaji Rao Road, Dhanvantri Road, Irwin Road, Vani Vilas Road, M.G. Road, Seshadri Iyer Road, M. Srinivasan Circle in Chamundipuram, are replete with farmers from the villages of Mysuru and Chamarajanagar districts, who have brought their produces like flowers, mango leaves, banana plants and ash gourd to cash in on the festival rush.

Flowers, that are usually in demand on Monday and Friday, will be the pick of many especially during festivals. Reflecting the demand, chrysanthemum used for decorating vehicles and households, is being sold at Rs. 60 to Rs. 80 for a standard length, while the red colour marigold flower, used for larger decorations, is sold in the range of Rs. 40- Rs. 50 per length and yellow marigold for Rs. 60 to Rs. 70 per length.

"Mysuru Mallige, the eponymous product of Mysuru, that is popular among womenfolk, for its distinct fragrance, is sold at a whopping Rs. 800 per kg, Sugandharaja (Tuberose) at Rs. 200 per kg, Kakada (Star Jasmine) at Rs. 400 to Rs. 500 per kg, Kanakambara (Crossandra) at Rs. 700 to Rs. 800 per kg, Sanna Marle (Jasminum auriculatum) at Rs. 600 to Rs. 700 per kg," said Manjunath, a flower vendor at Devaraja Market.

Pachch Bale (banana) is sold at Rs. 40 to Rs. 50 per kg, Elakki Banana at Rs. 80 to Rs. 100 per kg, a pair of banana plants Rs.30 to Rs. 50 and a bunch of mango leaves at Rs. 10 to Rs. 15. Ash Gourd is sold at Rs. 30 to Rs. 40 per kg, lemon at Rs. 10 for two to three, depending on the size, said Basappa a lemon vendor.

Shivu from Chamarajanagar has brought two loads of ash gourd anticipating a good response.

Final touches underway for grand 'Jumboo Savari'

Mysuru, Sept. 30 (MTY,RK& DM)- With the grand Jumboo Savari procession on Oct. 2, marking the culmination of the 11-day Dasara festival, the final phase of preparations is in full swing at the Mysore Palace premises.

Seating arrangements for 45,000 pass holders and Gold Card spectators are in their final stages, with workers setting up steps, shade pendals and designated areas along the procession route inside the Palace premises.

This morning, the final rehearsal of the Dasara elephants was held at the Palace. City Police Commissioner Seema Latkar, Conservator of Forests, Mysuru Circle Ravishankar, DCF I.B. Prabhu Gowda, and other officials performed the Pushparchane ritual for the Golden Howdah-carrying elephant Abhimanyu.

Abhimanyu was flanked by Kumki elephants Kaveri and Roopa, amidst the firing of 21-gun salutes and the Police Band playing the national anthem.

Addressing the press after inspecting the seating and security arrangements, Commissioner Latkar emphasised that only pass and Gold Card holders will be allowed inside the Palace for the procession and the Torchlight Parade at Bannimantap on Oct. 2.

She added that security has been significantly beefed up, and several measures have been implemented to ensure a safe and secure Dasara this year.

With every detail meticulously finalised, Mysuru is ready to host a spectacular and secure Jumboo Savari, upholding the grandeur and tradition of Dasara.

Elephant line-up

Ravishankar confirmed that all elephant rehearsals and acclimatisation exercises have been completed. He outlined the lineup for the grand procession, with Abhimanyu carrying the Golden Howdah, Kaveri and Roopa as Kumki elephants, Dhananjaya serving as the Nishane elephant, and Gopi as the Noupat elephant.

The Line-1 elephants will include Lakshmi, Srikanta, and Mahendra, followed by Line-2 elephants Ekalavya, Bhima, and Kanjan, while Line-3 elephants will comprise Prashantha, Sugreeva, and Hemavathi.

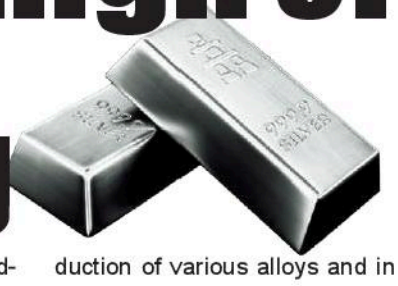
Silver touches all-time high of Rs. 1.49 lakh per kg



Mysuru, Sept. 30 (KS)- The cost of Silver has touched an all time high of Rs. 1.49 lakh per kilogram in city.

The rise in the cost is attributed to high and growing demand for silver, its affordability compared to the precious yellow metal gold, industrial and investment demand etc.

Speaking to Star of Mysore this morning, Harsha Nandana Tholasi of city's Tholasi Jewels said that Silver prices are increasing due to a combination of factors, including robust industrial demand from green energy (solar panels, EVs) and electronics, tight supply caused by a structural deficit, strong investor demand for its safe-haven properties amid geopolitical and economic uncertainty and the weakening of the US dollar, which makes silver a more attractive investment.

Customers purchasing silver articles at Tholasi Jewels on Temple Road, V.V. Mohalla in city this morning.

He also said that sale of silver jewellery has increased because of its affordability.

Navarathan M. Darla of city's Jewel Mandir and World of Silver, who too spoke to Star of Mysore said that the increase in the price of Silver can also be attributed due to restrictions in importing Silver from Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) countries. The increase in the price of Silver is also because of its medicinal values due to its broad-spectrum antimicrobial properties, which have been used for thousands of years to prevent and treat infections.

Darla said that Silver is vital in various industries due to its superior electrical conductivity and reflectivity with key applications in electronics (for circuits and contacts), solar panels (as a conductor), medicine (for bandages and instruments) and catalysis for chemical production. It is also used for specialised mirrors, soldering and in the production of various alloys and in the food industry for edible silver leaf. He said that by looking at the trend now, it is the right time to invest in Silver.

State elephant handlers known for skills: Khandre

Forest Minister Eshwar B. Khandre poses for a picture with Dasara elephants and their handlers at Mysore Palace yesterday. Khandre distributing kits to Mahouts and Kavadis as District Congress President Dr. B.J. Vijay Kumar, PCCF Manoj Ranjan, DCF Dr. I.B. Prabhugowda and other Forest Officers look on.

Mysuru, Sept. 30 (MTY&BCT)- In a tribute to Karnataka's elephant handlers, Forest Minister Eshwar B. Khandre lauded the State's mahouts and kavadis for their unmatched role in mitigating human-wildlife conflict across India.

Speaking at the Mysore Palace premises yesterday, after distributing welfare kits to Dasara elephant caretakers, the Minister highlighted that the skills of Karnataka's mahouts are not taught in any University but are inherited legacies, passed down through generations.

Khandre noted that Karnataka's handlers have earned national recognition for their expertise in taming rogue elephants and participating in high-risk operations involving the capture of man-eating tigers and aggressive wild elephants.

Their reputation is such that States like Andhra Pradesh and Goa frequently seek Karnataka's trained kumki elephants for their own wildlife management operations.

While commending this traditional knowledge, the Minister stressed the need to complement inherited skills with modern training programmes led by experts to enhance their preparedness in handling unpredictable animal behaviour.

Concern over selfie culture

Turning to safety during the Dasara festivities, the Minister raised concern over visitors taking selfies and social media reels dangerously close to the elephants, with some even touching their tusks and trunks. Though the elephants are well-trained, their reactions in certain situations can be unpredictable.

As a precaution, the District Administration has prohibited public access near the elephants and warned of penalties for violations. In a recent case, a woman bypassed security to film a reel near the elephants, prompting disciplinary action against staff on duty. Officials confirmed notices had been issued for the lapse.

Tribute to Arjuna

Khandre also paid homage to Arjuna, the celebrated elephant who carried the golden howdah eight times during Dasara. Arjuna tragically died during a rogue elephant capture operation near Yeslur in Hassan district.

To honour his legacy, memorials have been set up at Nagarahole's Balle and Yeslur. While the Balle memorial has already been inaugurated, Yeslur memorial is slated to be opened soon.

Yesterday's event was attended by Principal Chief Conservator of Forests Manoj Ranjan, Conservator of Forests Ravishankar, DCFs Dr. I.B. Prabhugowda, K. Paramesh and Shankaregowda and Mysuru Zoo Executive Director Anusha.

Minister Eshwar Khandre visits Dasara Photo Exhibition

Mysuru, Sept. 30 (MTY&BCT)- To curb leopard-related incidents in Mysuru district, Forest Minister Eshwar B. Khandre formally handed over five new vehicles and a suite of modern safety equipment to the district's Leopard Task Force (LTF).

The ceremony, held at the Mysore Palace premises, marks a significant enhancement of the team's operational capacity in tackling human-wildlife conflicts.

The Forest Department has procured specialised gear, including fibre batons, protective shields, and advanced surveillance tools. Among the showcased equipment were thermal drones, 360-degree drones, solar-powered sensor drones, high-intensity torches, and multiple types of cages and nets.

Officials demonstrated their usage to the Minister, underscoring their importance in capturing rogue leopards and ensuring the safe rescue of cubs.

Khandre noted that these resources would strengthen both efficiency and safety of the Task Force during high-risk operations.

Puja to Abhimanyu

The rituals, conducted near the Kodi Someshwara Temple within the Palace, were led by priest Prahallad Rao. The Minister offered sugarcane, jaggery and fruits to the elephants.

Ex-MUDA Commissioner in judicial custody

Lifeline in crisis...

108 Ambulance service falls sick

Only 9 of 37 ambulances running in Mysuru; poor patients left stranded

Mysuru, Sept. 30 (RK&BCT)- The 108 Arogya Kavacha Ambulance service, once hailed as a lifeline for Karnataka's poor and rural communities, is now on the brink of collapse.

Launched in 2008 through a public-private partnership between the State Government and the Emergency Management and Research Institute (EMRI), the service was envisioned to provide free, 24x7 emergency medical assistance to every corner of the State, regardless of a person's economic or social background.

At its inception, 1,900 ambulances were sanctioned to operate under the scheme across Karnataka. EMRI was tasked with maintaining the vehicles, handling repairs, paying staff salaries, and ensuring rapid response whenever a distress call was received. However, over the years, the service has steadily deteriorated.

Vehicles lying defunct, rural services crippled

Today, the reality is grim. Over 60 percent of the ambulances are off the road, lying defunct in garages, Government hospital compounds or abandoned in rural outposts due to poor maintenance and mismanagement.

Only 40 percent of the sanctioned fleet remains operational, drastically reducing the reach of this crucial service.

The situation is particularly alarming in Mysuru district, where 37 ambulances were originally allotted. Shockingly, only nine are currently functional, while the remaining vehicles lie parked in as-is condition, many stripped for parts or awaiting repairs that never come.

For the past four to five months, this shortage has crippled emergency medical services, leaving rural and low-income communities without affordable or timely help during critical situations.

Poor and middle class bear the brunt

When the 108 service was launched, these ambulances routinely responded even to remote rural areas, ferrying patients to Primary Health Centres (PHCs) and, when needed, to taluk or district hospitals for advanced treatment.

With most vehicles now out of service, private ambulance operators are exploiting the crisis. They charge exorbitant fees, knowing that desperate families have no alternative.

These private ambulances are often seen stationed outside hospitals, including K.R. Hospital and even Government mortuaries, ready to take advantage of patients or grieving families.

For poor households, the situation has become dire. In many cases, the cost of transporting a patient now exceeds the cost of treatment, forcing families into debt or compelling them to forego life-saving care.

The 108 Arogya Kavacha ambulance service was launched in Karnataka on November 1, 2008, during the tenure of Chief Minister B. S. Yediyurappa, who led the BJP government at the time.

Sharaddanjali hearse van service also defunct

Adding to the crisis, the Sharaddanjali vehicle (free hearse service) launched by the Health and Family Welfare Department in Mysuru to transport the bodies of deceased persons to their native villages free of cost has also been non-operational for months.

As a result, grieving families are forced to pay thousands of rupees to private operators to transport bodies for final rites. Ironically, shifting a deceased person now costs more than transporting a patient from remote villages to a government hospital.

Govt. to take direct control: DHO

Mysuru, Sept. 30 (RK&BCT)- Reacting to the crisis, Mysuru District Health Officer (DHO) Dr. P.C. Kumaraswamy said that the State Government has approved a proposal to bring the 108 Arogya Kavacha ambulance service under the direct management of the Health Department, ending its dependence on private operators. A Government Order (GO) to this effect was issued on June 12.

Dr. Kumaraswamy

"Most of the 108 ambulances in Mysuru are currently out of service. We have already sent 16 vehicles for major repairs to a showroom on Hunsur Road. Mysuru has a sanctioned fleet of 37 ambulances and our goal is to repair every vehicle and make them roadworthy within the next month," he assured.

To handle emergencies in the interim, the Health Department had temporarily deployed blood bank vehicles and private vehicles with lined-up drivers to function as makeshift 108 ambulances. However, Dr. Kumaraswamy admitted that this was not an effective long-term solution.

"In about a month, all 37 ambulances will be fully operational, significantly improving emergency response in Mysuru," he added.

During her visit, Ranjini added her personal touch by naming the snow elephant 'Airavatha', after the mythological white elephant known for strength and divinity.

"It feels wonderful to see Mysuru's grandeur celebrated in such a unique way. Snow Ambari truly brings the spirit of Dasara alive for today's generation. Naming the elephant Airavatha felt natural, it stands for strength, divinity, and Mysuru's bond with elephants," she said, addressing visitors and fans who had gathered to meet her.

"We were delighted to have Ranjini with us," said Ashwin Dange, Director, GRS Snow Park. "With the mahouts unveiling it and now Ranjini giving it a name, the Snow Ambari has become more than just a sculpture. It has a story, a spirit, and a personality that people will remember long after Dasara."

Located beside GRS Fantasy Park on the Ring Road, just 5 kms from Mysuru city centre, GRS Snow Park promises to be one of the highlights of Dasara.

The Snow Ambari will remain open until Oct. 12. Tickets are available online and at the venue.

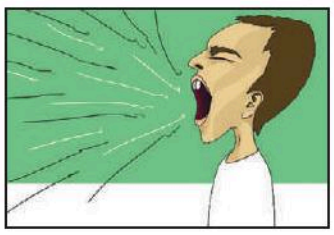
WORD OF THE DAY

Vociferous

Pronunciation: voh-SIF-uh-rus (adjective)



Meaning: Vociferous describes people who express their feelings or opinions loudly and insistently. It is also applied to things, such as objections, that are expressed in such a way.

Origin: Hear ye! Hear ye! To vociferate is to cry out loudly and insistently. Those who vociferate qualify as vociferous, especially when they loudly or insistently show their support for or displeasure in something by hootin' and hollerin'. Both vociferate and vociferous come from the Latin verb vociferari, a combining of vox, meaning "voice," with ferre, meaning "to carry." In addition to describing loud and insistent individuals and groups — critics, crowds, fans, et al.—vociferous can be used for anything characterized by loud insistence, as in "vociferous complaints," "a vociferous defense," and "vociferous support."

Example: Earlier, there was talk of building a sports complex with playing fields in Highlands Ranch's 202-acre Wildcat Regional Park, which is owned by the county. But that plan was met with vociferous opposition from residents last year. " — John Aguilar, The Denver Post, 5 Aug. 2025.

THE ODD WORD

Anomie

Lack of moral standards in a society.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

A leopard never changes its spots

Meaning: The phrase "A leopard never changes its spots" means that it's impossible for one to change their character, even if they will try very hard. The expression, sometimes also used as "a leopard can't change its spots", is used to explain the idea that no one can change their innate nature.

Origin: This meaningful phrase dates as far back as the Old Testament. It was used in Jeremiah 13:23, where the Hebrew prophet Jeremiah had originally said: "Can the Ethiopian change his skin, or the leopard its spots?" "A leopard never changes its spots" derives directly from that phrase and is still used today.

Example: "Brendan: 'Do you think he'll ever stop lying to us?' William: 'I doubt it; after all, a leopard never changes its spots'."
